Audurra: Accessories for the paint professional from a single source

Axalta is launching its own range of accessories with the Audurra brand. Products were selected during the assembly process to optimally support the process of professional repair painting. Spies Hecker customers have the opportunity to obtain accessories and paint products from one source for all work steps.

In order to achieve the best possible result when painting, different factors play a role. In addition to high-quality lacquers and the individual know-how of the paint shop, the best possible accessories are also part of this. For this reason Axalta has now developed its own range of accessories for professional automotive refinishing with Audurra. The Audurra range will be introduced including abrasives, masking tapes and films, nitrile gloves, technical cloths, mixing cups, stirring bars and paint stands. The range is being continuously expanded. Each accessory is available in two levels of quality to meet the varying needs of the facility.

From professionals to professionals

"Experienced paint workers have thoroughly tested and found the Audurra products to be good at our training centers," said Joachim Hinz, Spies Hecker Brand Manager Europe, Middle East and Africa, and a further advantage is the time saving when ordering. "To date, accessories have always had to be ordered separately from one or even several suppliers, and paints and accessories are now coming from a single source," says Joachim Hinz. "For these reasons, we recommend that our customers use Audurra accessories.

Spies Hecker customers can order the Audurra accessories from their specialist consultant or in the webshop:
